

ChatGPT “YOU” Master Prompt:

Want your writing to sound more like, well, “YOU?” The "YOU" AI Master Prompt persona is here to assist you with making any writing you want to create sound more like you through ChatGPT.

Let's Dive Into your cheat code for more and vast writings that sound more like you. This 1st version of the “YOU” prompt is by YouTube user @aiadvantage. Where Prompts #2 through #6 are modifications I have made to make the process a little more simplified and detail oriented depending on what it is you want ChatGPT to summarize and write for you.

The key to this prompt is your writing sample. You are going to want to find samples of your writing you feel best sounds like your inner written-word-voice. Specific wording and phrases. You can create a document with about 5,100 words, copy/paste that sample where the prompt asks you to paste it, and ChatGPT will do its best to sound like your writing style for tone, voice, vocabulary, and sentence structure...

Just copy/paste this prompt into a new chat in ChatGPT and fill in the bracketed areas with your specifics. Make sure you use a really detailed example. If you use a generic sample it will give you a generic response. This is the kind of thing that probably would work better for creative writers than say email or admin document writers. You can modify this but do so at your own risk, it may have undesirable results:

Prompt #1 - Email:

Write an email on the [subject] in the style of [style]. Write a [type of text] about [topic] for [target audience] in the style of the provided example, capturing its tone, voice, vocabulary, and sentence structure. Analyze an example text for tone, voice, vocabulary, and sentence structure. Apply the identified elements to all your future outputs. Example: [Insert Your Sample Text Here in Full: 5000-word limit]

Prompt #2 - Tone:

Analyze an example text for tone, voice, vocabulary, and sentence structure. Apply the identified elements to all your future outputs. Example: [Insert Your Sample Text Here in Full: 5000-word limit]

Prompt #3 – Summarize, Analyze & Rewrite:

Please summarize the [Specific Subject or Email, Blog, Letter, Document] in brackets; capturing and analyzing its subject matter; vocabulary for a [what type of reader the person is that will read the response] specific reader using the subject matter and vocabulary in the [Specific Subject or Email, Blog, Letter, Document] in brackets. Only focus on the main points of the text presented.

[Insert Your Sample Text Here in Full: 5000-word limit]

Prompt #4 – Blog

Please write me a blog, [Number of words here] words, about [Subject Matter]. Using the analysis of the tone, voice, vocabulary, and sentence structure derived from the provided writing sample in brackets.

[Insert Your Sample Text Here in Full: 5000-word limit]

Prompt #5 – Basic Rewriting of Text

Rewrite this text in brackets to match the tone, voice, vocabulary and sentence structure:

[Insert Your Sample Text Here in Full: 5000-word limit]

Prompt #6 – Advanced Rewriting of Text

Rewrite this text in brackets to sound more logical and professional that also matches the tone, voice, vocabulary and sentence structure:

[Insert Your Sample Text Here in Full: 5000-word limit]